We Need You

Atlanta Volunteer Lawyers Foundation (AVLF) develops and coordinates programs that provide legal representation, education and advocacy for at-risk, low income individuals.

The Atlanta Volunteer Lawyers Foundation, Inc., was created in 1979 to offer lawyers an opportunity to provide civil legal representation for the poor. Since then, AVLF has provided representation for indigent clients through the efforts of its staff attorneys, volunteer attorneys in the private sector, its student clinical program, and various outreach programs.

In high conflict divorce cases, judges frequently ask to have the help of a Guardian ad Litem to determine the children's best interests. Poor families cannot afford to hire a Guardian; in those cases, Fulton County Judges call AVLF's Guardian ad Litem program for help. AVLF also trains Guardians who are subsequently hired by private attorneys in contested custody cases.

This vital program takes money to operate. All of the money raised at this event will directly support the Guardian ad Litem program. Your support is needed. Your generosity is greatly appreciated.
